Voices for the Voiceless, A Poetry Concert

Saskia Fabricant, who most of you know from the summer thought some of you would really enjoy coming to this poetry event at Amherst College on Dec. 8 from 5:45-10pm, Amherst College, Friedman room.

We need to know who is interested to figure out if we will be able to transport interested students. Please let us know if you'd like to come and if you'd need a ride. We cannot promise that everyone who is interested will be able to come this time because of limited van space. However, there will be other opportunities in the future if you are not able to come to this event. We will let you know next week if you will be invited to this event and what the transportation plans will be. Students invited need to be in good standing with the program.

Saskia writes:

"Amherst is hosting "Voices for the Voiceless," a poetry concert featuring world-renowned poets. There are influential poets and leaders from the Holyoke/Springfield area as well as famous poets from cities like New York and Washington DC. I've been to this event in previous years and it's a lot of fun - it's perhaps my favorite event of the year. The poets are very dynamic and the poetry ranges from sad and touching to fun and lively (including raps and songs). The poetry ranges in topics as well, but focusing on minority experiences in the US. It's a really great event and there will be a Mexican buffet served this year."
